

Dear NMSU Campus Community:

Good morning and ... Happy Birthday to New Mexico State University! Yes, today marks the 121st anniversary of the founding of our great institution in 1888.

We can all be proud of the tremendous growth since then of our university, which has developed in the most intriguing and fascinating ways that our founders would surely marvel at, were they with us today.

It is a good time to celebrate how far we have come as an institution since those early years; where we are now in terms of our important efforts in teaching, research and outreach; and how we will progress from this point as we embrace the new challenges and opportunities that lie ahead.

Today is a wonderful opportunity to celebrate our great institution – 121 years of serving as the state’s land-grant university!

Have a great day, Aggies!
