GOVT 470/574:

RESISTANCE MOVEMENTS IN WORLD POLITICS

INSTRUCTOR: DR. NEIL HARVEY

CLASS MEETS Mondays, 6.00-8.30 pm, Breland 179

This class will examine the emergence, strategies and impact of resistance movements around the world. We will compare a variety of movements, including radical Islamism, anti-globalization protests, and the Zapatista movement. In addition, we will discuss new theories of resistance in contemporary world politics.

Requirements will include research, oral presentation and a final paper. Open to undergraduates and graduate students.
